Care Communications, Inc. Named an Elite Winner Among Top Chicago Employers

CHICAGO, September 8, 2010 – Care Communications, Inc. (www.carecommunications.com), a national health information management (HIM) consulting and staffing firm, has received the Elite Award for “Recruitment and Selection” from the National Association for Business Resources (www.nationalbiz.org), one of just eleven elite awards given out as part of Chicago’s 101 Best and Brightest Companies to Work For 2010 annual awards competition. This marks the third consecutive year Care Communications has received an elite award as part of the annual competition, winning honors in the small business category in 2008 and 2009.

“Our clients count on Care Communications providing the HIM industry’s most qualified professionals to support a wide range of HIM initiatives, from coding support to revenue cycle optimization and medical record procurement and abstraction,” said Patty Thierry Sheridan, MBA, RHIA and President of Care Communications. “Barbara Black and the Human Resources team at Care Communications have excelled for years at maintaining the best selection criteria and hiring processes to ensure we continue to meet client demand for the industry’s top talent, and it’s an honor to receive this recognition, especially in a city that’s home to so many of the nation’s top companies.”

The “101 Best and Brightest Companies to Work For” program is presented annually in three markets: Metro Detroit, Western Michigan and Chicago. Other Chicago companies honored with elite awards in 2010 include Harrah’s Joliet Hotel & Casino, Radio Flyer, Turner Construction Co, Verizon Wireless, KPMG LLP and Ernst & Young.

“We work in a people business, and we’re valued for our trustworthiness and long-term relationships,” said Leslie Fox, CEO at Care Communications. “I am deeply grateful to everyone who works, or who has ever worked with us for what I learn from them and for what they share with our clients. My pledge to present and future Care Communications employees is that the leadership will continue working as hard as we can to have an environment in which all employees can continue growing and taking pride in our collective accomplishments.”

The Chicago competition received thousands of entries. An independent research firm evaluated each company’s entry, selected Elite winners based on their overall high scores and then named each Elite winner in their highest performing category. The Elite award in the Recruitment and Selection category recognizes exemplary recruitment methods and selection processes to screen and select people who best fit the organization.
